CALIFORNIA News Review

The Catholic chapel of Aptos, housing the statue of our Lady of Mt. Carmel for sixty years, is to be torn down to make room for modern improvements. The statue has attracted considerable interest since it was brought from Spain, where it was made.

California is gradually cutting down its "murder-a-day" record. In 1928 there were 339 homicides in the state, but figures for the past year show that this has been reduced to 327—less than one a day. During the past ten years a total of 3,629 homicides were reported in California.

The largest and most complete airplane ambulance ever designed in this country will be tested April 1 in the annual air corps field exercises at Sacramento, Calif. In making this announcement the War Department described the craft as a tri-motored plane fitted with wire "cradles," accommodating four to six patients. Its crew consists of two pilots, a flight surgeon and a medical attendant.

Possibility of aviation legislation under which emergency landing fields would be laid out and maintained by the State government at important points throughout California has been revealed at Sacramento. The suggested aviation fields might be financed from moneys now refunded to aviation concerns under the State gasoline tax law, provided they would be willing to forego such rebates in the interest of better emergency landing facilities on the main air lines. Check-up of gasoline tax figures shows $57,482 was refunded to the principal airplane companies of California during 1929. It is estimated that rebates to all aircraft interests total about $60,000 a year.

Red Bluff's new military unit, Company E, 184th Infantry, California National Guard, was mustered into the service by Major Irwin E. Farington of Marysville, major of the second battalion, 184th Infantry. Officers of the new company are: Captain Elmer L. Stump, First Lieutenant Donald M. Smith, Second Lieutenant Paul R. Hobson. There are fifty-five enlisted men in the company.

Value of dutiable imports at Calexico port of entry in February was $57,735, an increase of $5,650 over February, 1929. U. S. customs office records showed. Value of free imports dropped more than $100,000, compared with the same month last year, due largely, it was believed to falling off of cotton importations. Value of exports for the month was $467,185, compared with $550,146 in February last year.

A new road in Death Valley, extending from Stove Pipe Wells north along the west side of the valley proper to Mesquite Wells and on to Death Valley Scotty's home, has just been completed, according to a report from H. W. Eichbaum, owner of Stove Pipe Wells Hotel and of the toll road via Cottonwood Range, to the touring bureau of the California State Automobile Association. The distance from Stove Pipe Wells resort to Scotty's over this road is thirty miles, and the side trip can be made in approximately two hours. The road is of the usual graded, dragged type, it is declared, and will offer no difficulties to the experienced desert travelers.

Fresno's progress in its fight for reduced gas rates will be made known late in March when the State Railroad Commission will hold a hearing at the Fresno Commercial Club, according to Mayor Z. S. Leymel. The city also seeks to eliminate a 70 per cent service charge. The Pacific Gas and Electric Company will seek to retain present prices and may even ask for a slight increase, it was announced.

A transcontinental air express system using specially built cargo carrying planes, powered with Diesel engines, will be put in operation, probably within a year. This announcement was made by the Aircraft Finance Corporation of America sponsoring the new company, which will be known as the United States Aerial Express lines. According to present plans, there will be three Pacific terminals of the system—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle—with Atlantic Coast terminals at New York, Boston and a point in Florida.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Company was granted permission by the Railroad Commission to construct a house track at grade across Sheridan street, and a passing track at grade across Cota street in Corona, Riverside county.

San Jose merchants were definitely lined up against the proposal to reduce the parking limit in the San Jose business district from one hour to forty minutes. Directors of the association voted to retain the parking rules as they are at present.

The Balboa Yacht Basin Company, Ltd., filed articles of incorporation with Secretary of State Frank G. Jordan. Headquarters of the organization are in Orange county. The authorized capitalization was set at $50,000. Directors named were Henry C. Grant, J. A. Beck, R. S. White, R. W. McClellan and Paul Mason, all of Balboa.

L. F. Wiseman of Jenner applied to the Railroad Commission for permission to sell the Jenner water system in Jenner-by-the-Sea, Sonoma county, to E. H. Crawford, Santa Rosa, for the sum of $2,000.

The City Hall in Sonora, one of the oldest hotels on the Mother Lode, known as the stopping place for all stage coaches in the days before the automobile, has been sold to Edward G. Wenzel of Sonora by Edward A. Balser.

Improvement of San Jose parks with the $50,000 surplus in the sewer system fund is asked by the San Jose realty board. A dam to store flood waters in Alum Rock Park for use in dry months is sought by the board.

Organization of a Boy Scout Band is under way at Santa Rosa with the appointment of Charles Bourne as musical director. Application blanks have been placed in all Scout troops, and all Scouts who play any instrument are being invited to join the band.

Although underbid by the United States government by 12 cents on the $155,000 contract for dredging the wider and deeper shipping channel between Point Edith, in upper Suisun bay, and Pittsburg, on the San Joaquin river, the Long View Dredging Company of Rio Vista is expected to be given the contract. Stockton is contributing heavily to the channel project, and this fact is expected to cause the government engineers to give the contract to a private firm.

Two hundred new students will be accepted by the University of Santa Cruz next August. It was announced by Father William Gianera, registrar. A certificate of public convenience and necessity was granted by the State Railroad Commission to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company to exercise franchise rights for the distribution of gas at Benicia. Manufacture of gas will be served from the company's Vallejo plant until natural gas is available.

A flock of wild pigeons, estimated to exceed 1,000 birds, is making daily visits into Chico from the foothills and feeding in the fields and in Bodwell Park. According to old-time residents, this is the second time in thirty years that a huge flock of wild pigeons has visited that section. The birds appear in the early morning, feed until about 8 o'clock and then go back to the foothills. Late in the afternoon they return for their evening meal. Since the birds are protected by the federal migratory law the year round, the increasing flocks are causing considerable damage, and the cherry orchardists in the district are complaining of their depredations.

Through the efforts of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce, local merchants will be called upon to pay monthly retailer fees to the night watchman for extinguishing store and display lights at night. This custom, invoked in the war period, when city finances were being curtailed, has become a burden not warranted by present conditions. The City Council authorized the police officers to turn off lights without extra remuneration.

Litigation over tide land acreage, between North and South Vallejo, that has been going on for seven years, was virtually ended when city officials and private owners came to an agreement. Under the terms of the agreement the city of Vallejo acquires a strip of thirty acres in waterfront property inside the city-constructed bulkhead and the balance of thirty acres will be allotted to private owners. There now remains only the changing of some minor details in answers filed by the principals, after which a quiet title decree will be asked of Superior Judge H. D. Gregory of Glenn county, who is sitting on the bench for this case.

California Department of Public Works, division of highways, has applied to the State Railroad Commission for authority to construct an underground crossing of the tracks of Pacific Electric Railway at Malaga, west of San Bernardino.

Endorsement of the Sacramento Valley Council of the California State Chamber of Commerce was asked in the campaign to bring crew races of the 1932 Olympic games to the Sacramento river.

Supply of sardines on the Pacific Coast, particularly near Monterey bay, is becoming depleted in the opinion of Dr. Harold Heath of the Hopkins marine station. Dr. Heath placed the blame on what he called "stone age" fishing. "You can't take 300 tons of sardines in a single night and not have depletion," he said. He urged that currents be studied, as sardines are known to drift with them in search of food.

The final effort of the California Water Service Company to block the attempt of the city of Fresno to acquire the local water system was made when the water company filed its appeal to the Supreme Court, asking a review of the decisions given in California courts. The valuation set on the local water system by the State Railroad Commission was $2,327,000, which is several hundred thousand dollars below the amount asked by the company.

The national council of the Naval Y. M. C. A. has appropriated $24,000 for the proposed new addition of a gymnasium for the Vallejo Y. M. C. A. The balance of the sum necessary is to be raised in Vallejo.

Officials of an oil company inspected the air field at Newman and announced work would begin soon to improve buildings and grounds. The company intends to spend about $2,000.

Preparations are going forward for the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce good-will and business contact tour of the San Joaquin Valley in May. More than thirty cities and towns in the San Joaquin Valley will be visited by the San Francisco delegation of business men. The special train will leave San Francisco Sunday evening, May 4, and will reach Coalinga, the first stop, at 8 the next morning. In the larger communities, such as Fresno, Bakersfield and Stockton, stops will be made of sufficient duration to permit a thorough renewal of business contacts.

Pop Warner to Aid Coach Hanley

Teacher and pupil will collaborate when Pop Warner, veteran coach at Stanford university, assists Coach Dick Hanley in offering the football course at the annual Northwestern university summer school, August 11 to 22. Hanley uses the Warner system in his football coaching. Warner will give his course during the first week of the school.

Coach Hanley invited the famous west coast grid leader to give his football course when he went west with the all-star East team and trained at Palo Alto. Last summer the school attracted 185 coaches. This year the enrollment is expected to exceed 250.

Besides football the school offers courses in basketball and track. Coach Dutch Lomborg has charge of the basketball class and Coach Hill conducts track.

CALL INTRAMURAL SPORTS CURE-ALL

Does as Much Harm as Inter-collegiate Battles.

A lot of these cock-eyed theorists seem to think that intramural sports is the one sure cure for all the evils that they see swarming all over college athletics like a platoon of ants. They excuse the big money collected by the colleges from football by pointing out that the profits often are turned over to the intramural and "athletics for all" programs, writes Ray Cannon in the Chicago Daily News.

In theory, no doubt the intramural program is sound, but in practice it probably does as much or more harm to the student body than the great intercollegiate battles do. Hang around some of these intramural contests some time where the boys are boxing or wrestling or playing basketball or running the half mile, and see what happens to men who overdo competition when out of condition.

But you say, why not make the boys get into condition before competing? The answer is that they wouldn't go for the stuff if they had to get into condition first. Intramural sports, organized better than they are in their present pioneer state, may become in time of considerable value to the student body at large, but they can never replace the white heat of the big game as a crucible of what a man is going to be up against later on in the bigger game of life.

College football coaches often come closer to vicious professionalism than anyone else in the higher range of sports. James Rowland Angell, Yale president, has said: "Men who play for motives other than the love of the game, men to whom victory, however, won, is the controlling end, are men already on the road to professionalism, men who have sacrificed their amateurism."

When a football coach ducks out of a contract to capitalize on a championship with a new job at a big increase in pay he is a professional of the strictest order.

Though Babe Ruth will receive a salary of $80,000 this year and next, he actually will receive less than $70,000 himself each time, because $10,240 must go to pay the annual income tax.

In 40 years the Brooklyn club of the National league has had only 11 managers. This is due largely to the long tenure of Wilbert Robinson, who is going on his seventeenth year as leader of the Flatbush team. Ned Hanlon had seven seasons with the Dodgers. Bill Dahlen officiated for four years, preceding Uncle Robbie.

In his annual report, Dr. David Kinley, president of the University of Illinois, voices the opinion that the eight-game football season is too great a strain on members of the varsity team and favors the elimination of the last week in the season. Doctor Kinley declares the institutions in the intercollegiate conference would gain if the last week were eliminated.

Without doubt Jimmy McLarnin is the most popular upcoming fighter on the map. His victories during the past 12 months have convinced fans that the smiling James has lost his jinx and found the stride that will lead him to the championship.

They hope Jimmy will win because, besides his magnetic personality, he is the type of fighter the fans like. A digest of after-the-fight comment on the Miami bout indicates the most important result was a huge loss of prestige by Sharkey. Nothing was expected of Scott; but of the man who is to carry this country's banner in the next international battle for a title, it was at least expected that he would bear himself like a great fighter. Sharkey looked like anything but that, as reflected in stories of the bout. He punched wildly and he lacked ring poise. He lost his head and behaved like an excited schoolboy. A level head and a good disposition are absolute requisites in a great fighter.

Glenna Collett is the first one to hold the distinction of winning the United States women's golf championship four times—1922, 1925, 1928 and 1929.

Street No Gabbler

Most folks think Manager Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals got his name from his flow of language. The old sergeant can turn on a fountain of verbosity that would make Dan Webster call in his shorthand expert, but he didn't get his name from that accomplishment. Gabby hails from Huntsville, Ala., where baked 'possum is the principal dish and all the negro boys are called Gabby. The Card manager packed that to the big leagues with him.

Sporting Squibs

The Cubs have few outfield worries with Wilson, Stephenson and Cuyler in harness.

Mel Ott of the Giants waited out the pitcher and walked 113 times during the 1929 season.

The Cardinals have six southpaws in Mitchell, Sherdell, Hallahan, Hill, Fowler and Grabowski.

Pablo Dano, Filipino flyweight, is rated the greatest boxer of his nationality since Pancho Villa.

Henry L. Johnson, Jr., of Waban, Mass., was elected captain of the Dartmouth varsity hockey team.

Rowing is enjoying a new popularity at Harvard. Twenty-two crews have been working out this winter.

Brooklyn has a Southern league battery to start the 1930 baseball season in Blochman, pitcher, and Lopez, catcher.

Tod Slingsby, British Columbia long distance swimmer, plans to swim across the Straits of Juan de Fuca in the summer. It is 18 miles across with conflicting tides and fast current.

San Francisco sold a complete outfield for $175,000. Smead Jolley went to the White Sox recently for $50,000. A year ago Detroit paid $75,000 for Johnson and Cleveland got Averill for $50,000.

Electing co-captains, the United States Military academy basketball squad selected Cadets Dean C. Stroth, er, Winfield, Kans., and Orrin C. Krueger, Buffalo, N. Y., to lead the Army 1931 team.

The Williams winter sports team will be led this year by James A. Reynolds of Bronxville, N. Y., who has been re-elected captain. He is a member of the junior class and has been on the team for two years.

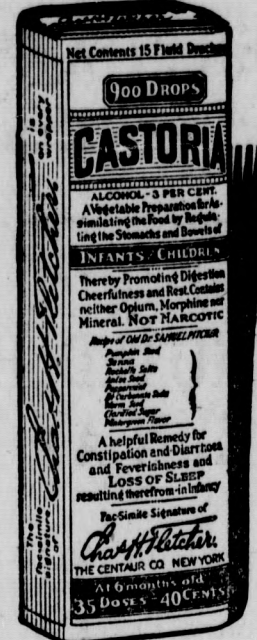

Experts are picking Jimmy Fox of the Philadelphia Athletics as the coming batting champion. He is expected to outdo Babe Ruth in home runs.

Pittsburgh will add two additional golf courses to its municipal equipment this year, making three in all.

Carlson of the University of Pittsburgh basketball team, regards Charley Hyatt as the greatest basketball player he has ever seen.

Mary K. Browne, professional tennis player and golfer of amateur standing, is the only woman to achieve prominence in both sports.

When Babies FRET

There are times when a baby is too fretful or feverish to be sung to sleep. There are some pains a mother cannot pat away. But there's no time when any baby can't have the quick comfort of Castoria. A few drops, and your little one is soon at ease—back to sleep almost before you can slip away.

Remember this harmless, pure vegetable preparation when children are ailing. Don't stop its use when Baby has been brought safely through the age of colic, diarrhea, and other infantile ills. Give good old Castoria until your children are in their teens! Whenever coated tongues tell of constipation; whenever there's any sign of sluggishness that needs no stronger medicines to relieve. Castoria is pleasant-tasting; children love to take it. Buy the genuine—with Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on wrapper.

Russia Conserving Gold
The Russian commissariat of health has ruled that gold received by government dentists from the state gold fund is to be used only on the teeth of toilers favored by the social insurance law, preference being given to industrial workers. Clients of all other categories can have a gold crown or filling made only on condition that they bring the metal with them. Rings, bracelets, chains, brooches and earrings are acceptable. This system has been introduced to curtail the use of precious metal from the state fund on antiprotectionist elements.

The Golden Age

Whitney Warren, a member of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, pointed to a picture at a private exhibition in New York which was repellent in its ugliness.

"Here we have an example of the worst type of modern art," said Mr. Warren. "The painter of that picture lacks all sense of beauty. His ideas, therefore, are all wrong. He's like the little boy."

"This little boy's mother had a cook whose magnificent display of gold teeth, front ones as well as back ones, greatly impressed the child. One day, leaning over the kitchen table at which she was cutting out cookies, he gazed up at the cook with admiring eyes and said: "Mandy, when do you think I'll be cutting my gold teeth?"

$43,000 A Day!

It is said that any nation is as strong as the homes within its boundaries. Fire then, strikes at the very heart of America when it causes a loss of over $43,000 a day in homes through carelessness with matches and "smokes." The National Board of Fire Underwriters points out that the total for 1928 in city, suburban and farm dwellings was in excess of $15,825,000.

Those who have made a study of conditions find an important difference between safety and danger in the use of these common articles. Matches are thrown away carelessly without being completely extinguished. They are lighted where conditions are dangerous—where explosive fumes may be present, or near a pile of papers or rubbish. They are often kept within the reach of young children or in cardboard boxes instead of in metal or earthenware containers.

The hazard from "smokes" develops when they are thrown away without being carefully extinguished, when they are thrown in piles of paper or rubbish, or when they are smoked where conditions are dangerous.

Even when all classes of property are considered, the careless use of matches and smoking materials is the largest single cause of fire in America. In 1928 it was responsible for a loss of over $34,878,000. This is reason enough for cautioning Americans to be careful without mentioning the fact that our total annual loss from all causes amounts to about $500,000,000 annually.

I wish to live without hate, whim, jealousy, envy, fear. I wish to be simple, honest, frank, natural, clean in mind and clean in body, unaffected—to say "I do not know," if it be so, and to face any obstacle and meet every difficulty unabashed and unafraid.

I wish others to live their lives, too, up to their highest, fullest, and best. To that end I pray that I may never meddle, interfere, dictate, give advice that is not wanted, or assist when my services are not needed. If I can help people, I'll do it by giving them a chance to help themselves and if I can uplift or inspire, let it be by example, inference, and suggestion, rather than by injunction and dictation.

William Howard Taft

Our nation recently wept at the grave of one of her most distinguished citizens and one of her best beloved sons.

All the evidence of a nation's affections has been given in a public way, but down deep in the heart of the people has been a feeling of personal sorrow.

No American president ever received higher or more long-continued honors than came to him, and none ever carried them with greater serenity, nor with greater ability.

William Howard Taft came into the shadows of life's twilight greatly beloved; he passed through them into the great Beyond universally mourned.

Business Is Getting Better

Men whose occupation it is to keep their fingers on the pulse of national conditions, report with a great deal of confidence that the outlook for business is better than they had expected to find it at this time. There was a belief at the turn of the year that it might be mid-summer before industrial conditions got back to normal. Now there is a general feeling that it will not be much after Easter before the slack has been taken up. Definite predictions with a time limit are always doubtful, but the fact that intelligent investigators believe that the worst is over is of great significance and interest.

The people of former romantic days who used to inquire "When shall we meet again?" are probably asking in these prosaic times, "When do we eat?"

The students who have been going without their hats all winter, might like to live in a house without any roof.

The smart guys who are holding up folks on the roads, are likely to be holding down jobs in jail workshops quite soon.

The stock market experts agree that if prices don't go up, they will go down, and if they don't go down, they will go up.

It is claimed that people's minds close up, but anyway they keep their mouths open.

Some people complain that they don't get any letters, but they probably get their bills regularly the first of the month.

If the students learn their lessons in spite of headache, they are not so apt to get the footache later looking for jobs.

If the weather bureau wants to know if spring has really come, it might find out if the boys are playing marbles on the sidewalks.

It is remarked that some people's only assets are their debts, but anyway these debts prove their ability to borrow money.

In spite of all efforts to abolish illiteracy, many of the automobile drivers of California do not seem able to read the warning signs along the roads.

DEATHS DUE TO AUTOS IN S. M. COUNTY NUMBER 40

Accidental Deaths in State Reach New High Mark

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Mar. 27.—(UP)—Automobile deaths in California rose to the unprecedented total of 2,243 persons last year, an increase of more than 20 per cent over the figure for 1928.

This was announced here today by Dr. Walter M. Dickie, director of the state department of public health, who pointed out that the automobile is killing well over 6 persons every day of the year, on the average.

San Mateo county's death toll from automobile crashes totaled 40 last year, the report disclosed, as compared to a total of 36 in 1928.

Of the army of souls who crashed to another existence in 1929, approximately half were pedestrians.

In accidents involving automobiles only, there was a total of 2,058 deaths in 1929, as compared to 1,719 in 1928.

A similar increase was noted in deaths from railroad train and automobile collisions, which numbered 125 for the year, as compared to 95 in 1928. Only five more lives were snuffed out in automobile-streetcar crashes last year over the year before—60 compared to 55.

Suit Filed For Return of Kegs

A suit in claim and delivery was filed Tuesday by Charles Zinola against John W. Poole, the Poole Transfer and Storage Company, and John W. Poole, doing business as the Poole Transfer and Storage Co. for the return of several barrels and their contents. In the complaint it is alleged that the storage firm has in its possession three 200-gallon barrels, fifteen 50-gallon barrels and three 25-gallon barrels.

The barrels and their contents were confiscated by Redwood City police from the basement of the house on Diller street occupied by Zinola. Their confiscation followed a fire in the rear of the house.

Zinola was arrested for illegal possession of liquor, but when tried before a jury in the police court, was found not guilty by the jury. The barrels and their alleged alcoholic contents were stored by the police with the Poole storage company. The value of the confiscated goods is set at $299 by the complaint.

BIG CHAIN OF MARKETS AID WESTERN GROWERS

MacMarr Organization Shows In Report That $12,000,000 Was Spent With Farmers In 1929

During 1929, more than $12,000,000 worth of produce was bought from western growers by the MacMarr Stores.

This, and many other interesting figures on this chain grocery company operating stores at 2614 and 2636 Broadway, are included in the official report issued this week.

In addition to the farm produce bought by the company, the MacMarr organization also purchased huge quantities of butter and other dairy products, direct from the producers.

The report states that the MacMarr Stores were organized early in 1929 as a merger of about 25 smaller chains established throughout the eleven western states. Sales during 1929 were more than $87,000,000 and net earnings were $2,173,523.

There are now 1400 stores, 400 meat markets, and 21 warehouses and plants in the MacMarr organization, serving California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska.

According to this report, the 1929 payroll was close to $9,000,000 paid 7000 persons working in the stores and warehouses. The year's rent bill was more than $1,750,000, and taxes totaled over $600,000.

The MacMarr Stores buy direct from producers wherever possible and sell direct to the public, thus making possible a considerable saving to their customers. This saving amounted to $5,000,000 according to conservative estimates.

Wherever a MacMarr Store is located, the company joins the local chamber of commerce and urges the store manager and supervisor to become members of service clubs, improvement bodies and other local activities. The company is entirely in the west and is interested solely in the upbuilding of the western country.

During 1930 many new warehouses and distributing plants are planned. Some of these are already under way, furnishing work for many construction men.

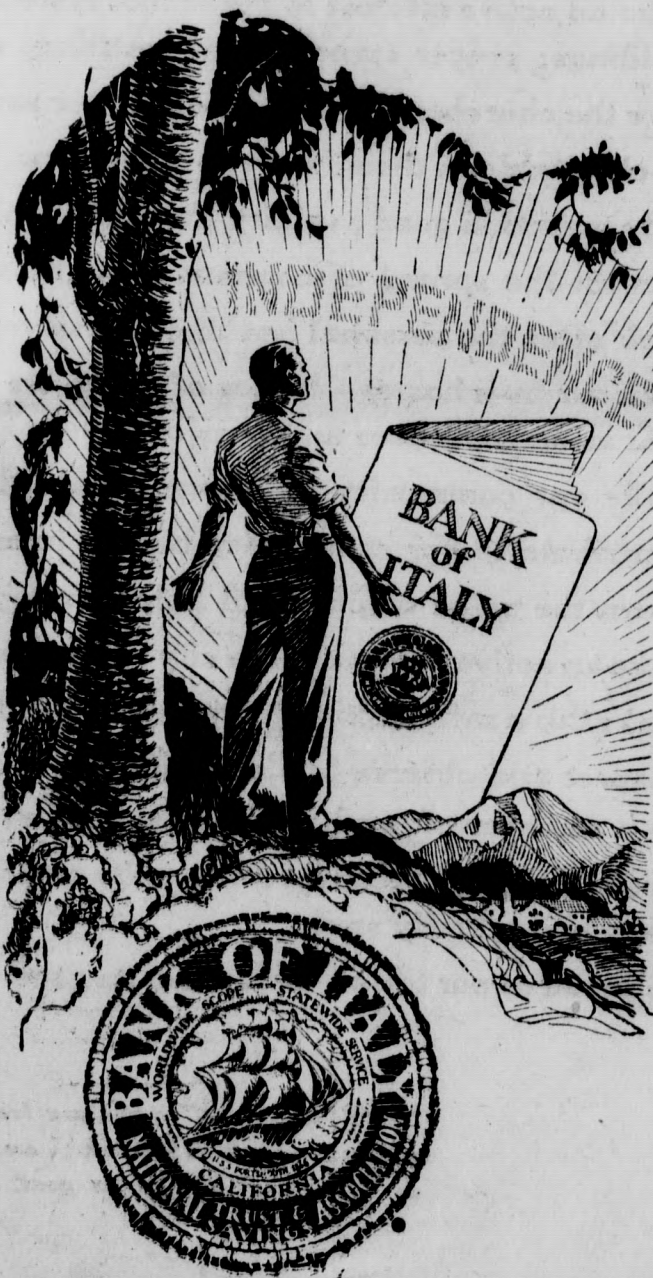

Other plans include further large purchases of fruits and vegetables, as well as other products, from western growers, as it is the aim of the MacMarr Stores not only to sell to the west but to buy from this territory whenever possible.

THE ICE BOX GOES TO COLLEGE...

COLUMBIA University co-operated with the refrigerator manufacturers in devising new iceboxes. New and scientific methods of design and insulation make them remarkably efficient and sanitary. They provide generous storage space, and amply low temperatures (less than 50°) yet use but little ice.

BEAUTIFUL, TOO: They gladden the hearts of women who take pride in their kitchens, with their up-to-date lines and beautiful finish in creamy, white or soft pastel shades.

BUY FROM YOUR ICE MAN AT HALF OLD-TIME PRICES: Just think—the prices of these new iceboxes, scientifically designed, beautifully styled—are only $25 to $65—just about half what an old style refrigerator used to cost you. Your ice man sells them on easy terms and will make a liberal allowance on your old refrigerator.

Ask your ice man about these new refrigerators today. Remember that a good icebox gives you one vital advantage no chemical refrigerator can—a constant circulation of clean, washed air that carries odors and impurities away and preserves the freshness and delicate flavor of your foods.

DON'T BE EXTRA-GANT — Smart women these days are steering clear of expensive non-essentials. Ice gives the best refrigeration that money can buy at nominal cost. Why spend more and get less?

Alleged Gangster
Arrested In S. F.

San Francisco police on Tuesday night captured Robert Calhoun, charged with an attempt to murder Clifford Holland, of Hayward, at Salda Beach, several weeks ago. Holland was taken in a car by two men, from where he met the men in San Francisco, to a point near Salda Beach; there he was ordered out of the car and was beaten and shot and left unconscious. He was later found and removed to a San Francisco hospital, where he is still confined by his injuries. Holland was a narcotic agent, and was on his way to report the purchase of narcotics when accosted by his assailants. When he recovered consciousness at the hospital, he named Calhoun and Jose Martinez as his assailants.

Looking Into Real Estate

This is one of a series of articles prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards and published for the information of readers of the Times-Gazette on real estate matters.

People who are not quite satisfied with our present tax system should glance back to the time of the American Revolution when public officials sold lottery tickets to raise funds for the construction of public works, roads, and bridges, says the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the seventy-third of a series of articles for the public.

There has been a great deal of clamor on the part of the public in recent years concerning the present tax situation and the real estate association interested in ways and means of improving such conditions, has searched the past history of the country to see how early officials met tax problems.

The present order may not please many people, but at least we do not have the special assessment by lottery, says the association in describing the craze for "chance" drawings that swept the country in the eighteenth century, and how even Congress itself approved the financing of a public canal through the sale of thousands of bits of pasted-on.

Millions Invested In Lotteries Funds for the construction of part of the capital city were raised in this way. President Washington's account books show that he participated in real estate lotteries, and Rev. Jeremy Belknap wrote from Boston in 1790 concerning the "rage" for lotteries there, and said, "I wonder that Secretary Hamilton does not hit upon a lottery as it would be more popular than laying a duty on salt, which if he does will greatly injure our fisheries."

The popularity of lotteries increased by leaps and bounds. Thousands of people both here and abroad speculated in the lotteries just as they now speculate in the stock market. A writer of the times describes scenes in Turin, France, where as the day for the drawing of a lottery approached, the poor people literally starved themselves so they could buy more tickets, and the provision stores and markets were deserted.

In 1748 the sale of lottery tickets for public works and other purposes in Philadelphia alone was estimated to be $1,500,000 a year, and in a short time in New York state, thirty-seven million dollars was invested in lotteries.

State legislatures endeavored to stem the tide by passing laws prohibiting the drawings but the same bodies turned around, when hard pressed for funds for public works, and authorized lotteries that were surprisingly successful.

The lotteries were a sort of voluntary tax and they helped to build up many American cities. Hotel for Prize Then, as now, lotteries were operated through the sale of tickets with a list of prizes (usually cash) for the fortunate holders of lucky numbers. And the prizes reached considerable proportions. A "superb hotel with baths" was the first prize in the lottery conducted for the improvement of public buildings in Washington in 1793.

The earliest notice of an American lottery, although it was not the first lottery, according to a report made by the American Historical Society in 1892, appeared in Andrew Bradford's "American Weekly Mercury," published in Philadelphia on February 23, 1720. It advertised a new brick house at the corner of Third and Arch streets for which 350 tickets at 20 shillings each were to be drawn. "John Read and Henry Frogley have given a five hundred pound bond (about $2500) to the mayor to see a fair drawing," says the advertisement.

As early as 1735 the proprietors of Pennsylvania used the lottery as a new method of selling lands, a method, by the way, that resembles the modern "free lot" scheme which the real estate interests have succeeded in prohibiting in many states. The early Pennsylvania plan was to sell 100,000 acres by lottery at fifteen pounds, ten shillings per one hundred acres, making the sum of 15,000 pounds. The sale of 7,750 tickets at two pounds (ten dollars) each, was to have made up the amount of 15,500 pounds. The subscription never having filled up, this lottery was never drawn, but the tickets actually sold were recognized as titles to the lands.

Lotteries Built Churches The lotteries flourished in Philadelphia then our largest city. There were many lotteries organized for public objects and even for the construction of churches. They were looked upon as a sort of voluntary tax for paving streets, erecting wharves, public buildings, etc., excavating canals, and building bridges.

In 1729 the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act to prohibit lotteries under a penalty of a fine of one hundred pounds but this act only prohibited "unauthorized" lotteries and those permitted by special legislative grant continued to flourish.

Benjamin Franklin, with other prominent citizens of Philadelphia, subscribed in 1748 to a lottery to raise three thousand pounds ($15,000) for the erection of a battery on the Delaware as a defense for the city against foreign invasion. The Common Council of Philadelphia took 2,000 of the 7,158 tickets. The lottery was successful and a battery of canon were planted below the city on the river bank.

During the same year, as a result of petitions from the city of Philadelphia, the state legislature passed an act authorizing a state lottery to raise $40,000 to improve the roads leading into the city and this lottery, too, was successful.

For Improvement of Washington In 1793 the funds for the erection of public buildings for the capital city were running low and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia organized a lottery to raise $350,000 "for the improvement of the Federal City." They appointed a Samuel Blodget (author of the first American statistical work "Economi-") as supervisor of the buildings and general agent for the lottery, at a salary of six hundred pounds a year. The lottery tickets for "the improvement of the Federal City" were seven dollars each and of the 50,000 issued 16,737 represented prizes and 33,263 were blanks. The big prize was a "superb hotel with baths outhouses, etc., to cost $50,000," and the cash prizes ran from $25,000 down to $10 each.

The Commissioners announced that the scheme was drawn up "with the previous approbation of the President"; and in a letter to Washington proposing a second lottery, the District Commissioners stated that the tickets for the first lottery "were taken up with avidity."

Nineteen years later, on May 6, 1812, an Act of Congress, approved by President Madison, recognized an Act of the Maryland legislature passed in 1795 to authorize two lotteries in the city of Washington to raise $52,500 to improve the means of communication by the construction of a canal in Maryland and the District of Columbia. Virtually receiving Federal approval, this lottery was tremendously successful and the tickets were sold throughout the various states that then comprised the United States.

Real Estate Lotteries Popular George Washington's account books now in the Library of Congress show entries of his participation in real estate lotteries. In 1756 he purchased ten tickets, at five pounds each, according to one of his entries, in the lottery organized for the sale of the famous estate of Col. Wm. Byrd comprising a large domain on the James river. The estate was heavily involved and writers of the time point out that if attempts had been made to sell it in the regular way, it would not have brought one-half what it did in the lottery.

But the lottery system finally brought about evils and abuses that gradually led the public to lose confidence in it, and even lotteries for public works, roads, etc., became unpopular. At first new laws were passed to prohibit lotteries under fines and forfeitures, then the lotteries were prohibited by criminal statute, and finally in 1822 the prohibition of lotteries was a part of the Constitution of all states except eleven in which the lotteries were prohibited by law anyway.

Contractor Robert Brown has staked out the ground for J. J. Moore's new house on the bluff near the McGarvey grade. The building will be very large and modern in every particular.

Judge Fitzpatrick is soon to erect a two-story brick building on his lot on a street adjoining the Ross building. Architect Coffey has the plans prepared, and contractors will soon be asked to submit their estimates. The building will have a frontage of thirty feet and a depth of seventy feet. It will be substantially built, and will have a front of plate glass and iron. The upper story will be used for the judge's offices and the lower floor will be rented for a merchandise store. It has already been rented.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mable have moved into their new home, recently erected by Mr. Redmond, at the end of Third street.

Mrs. S. T. Fox and her daughter, Miss Bee, came from the city Saturday and remained until Monday with Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Thorpe.

One Redwood City man who will attend the funeral of Mrs. Stanford is John Euriit. He was formerly in the employ of the Stanfords, and was a palbearer at the Senator's funeral.

Mrs. John Christ went to Berkeley Wednesday to visit her daughter, Mrs. L. D. Rathbone.

Hull Bros. have a very neat nickel sign put beneath their show windows during the week.

Andrew Hynding, son of C. J. Hynding of this city, has purchased the Baden hotel property at South San Francisco. The sale was consummated Friday.

Miss Laura Barton and Miss Alice Barton went to the city Tuesday and selected twenty-five of the best and latest books for the library. This will be the last addition to the reading matter that will be provided until the library is in new quarters.

While coming through the South Charles R. Bacon met William McDonald in New Orleans, where he was playing with Lee Dockstader's Minstrels. This minstrel is the best one in the United States and if all the performers are as good as McDonald, it is an all-star cast.

The Ladies' Euchre Club met on Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Hanson. A delightful time was enjoyed, and Mrs. B. F. Cooper carried off the prize, a beautiful silver spoon, for having won the greatest number of games. During the intermissions between playing the ladies partook of dainty refreshments.

Report

SACRAMENTO, March 26.—(UP)

While Doctors Coffey and Hummer started the world with their remarkable discovery for treatment of cancer, the malignant disease took the lives of 6,518 Californians during 1929, an average of 18 victims a day.

Tuberculosis and cancer have been running a neck-and-neck race as California's most sure messengers of death, but cancer took a distinct lead over tuberculosis last year, figures show.

"During 1929, cancer deaths more than doubled their lead over tuberculosis," said Dr. Walter M. Dickie, State director of public health. "Of course this does not mean that the disease is being led against tuberculosis rather than a too alarming increase in cancer cases."

In San Mateo county, a total of 69 persons died of cancer last year, the State's figures showed.

California's mortality tables for the last 13 years, show the effect of the war waged on tuberculosis as compared with cancer's steady increase. In the entire period, tuberculosis has averaged between a death rate of four to six thousand per year, some times declining and at other times showing a gain.

Letters Asked In
J. Shield's Estate

Mrs. Elizabeth Pohl, deputy in the office of County Auditor Edward M. Stack and formerly with the late Auditor J. J. Shields, has applied for letters of administration in the estate of the latter. Mrs. Pohl is acting at the request of Auditor Shields' widow, Mrs. Sarah E. Shields, 225 Grand street.

The heirs of the late auditor are his widow and four sons and two daughters, Claire, Richard, Madeline, Frank and Gerald Shields of this city, and Dr. Clement Shields of Halfmoon Bay.

Cancer has, however, shown a steady increase from 1906, when there were 1,462 deaths, to 1929 when 6,518 were victims. This makes the death rate stand at 14.64 per 100,000 population in California today, as compared with 9.9 average per 100,000 persons for the nation, Dr. Dickie's figures disclosed.

Mrs. Kenneth Shipp and little daughter were here from Piedmont yesterday visiting Mrs. Cecelia H. Graves on Arlington Road. Mrs. Shipp was formerly Miss Genevieve Nicholson and taught in the Redwood City elementary schools.

Menlo Park

The city council chamber was crowded to the doors Tuesday evening, when the meeting was called to order by Chairman Ellis. During the day a rumor was circulated to the effect that a change in the personnel of the executive department of the city government was to take place. All came to witness the pyrotechnic display. For some reason the fire crackers were not set off, hence the disappointment of the on-lookers.

Walter Kellogg, of the P. G. & E. company, in a communication told the council that the gas mains at Stanford Park were now in good order and adequate to supply that territory with gas.

The building inspector's report for the past month was read, showing that eight permits had been granted during that time, amounting to $145.55; $37 was for plumbing; $8.55 for electricity and $100 for building.

Ordinance No. 21, known as the "Nuisance Ordinance," was adopted with minor changes. As the law went into effect at once and placed heavy burdens upon the health officer, Dr. Gerlough, Blake urged that the doctor be given a salary of $15 a month. He said an epidemic may occur, requiring the services of the health officer and that he ought to be paid. Walker opposed the motion on the ground that a new council may be elected at the coming election and it would be better to leave the question of salary to it. Blake urged his motion, but having received no second, the motion was lost.

The sum of $20 was allowed the Mayor's Conference convention that meets annually. There was some opposition to the claim but it finally passed.

Blake moved to adjourn and this was promptly seconded by Walker, thus coming to an end the shortest session of the Menlo Park council on record.

The council will hold a special session on April 2.

George Shurtleff, brother of Ex. Supreme Justice Charles A. Shurtleff, passed away last Friday at the home of his brother, on the Ringwood Road where he had lived for the past five years. He was a wealthy vintner of Napa, and had retired from active business some years ago. He was a native of Shasta, aged 74 years. He was a charter member of the Elks club of San Francisco, and was widely known throughout the State. His father, Dr. Shurtleff, came to Napa many years ago, where the Shurtleff boys were raised. Mr. Shurtleff was a genial, kind and jovial man who made many friends and held them. Those who knew him loved and admired him for his splendid qualities of mind and heart.

Native Sons Hold Barbecue On Bear Gulch Property

Menlo Parlor N. S. G. W. on Sunday last held a barbecue and shoot on the Bear Gulch property back of the lake. The barbecue was in charge of George Murray, an expert in this line of cooking. He was fully up to his reputation on this occasion, presenting the Natives and their guests with choice pieces of beef that would tempt the most fastidious. At the shoot the honors went to Lionel Nunn, Ted Hoff, Foster Andrews and Charles Mogucken. Those who attended the affair report having a most pleasant afternoon in one of the beauty spots of the county.

Eight Candidates File For Trusteeship of City

At noon on Tuesday last the time for filing nomination papers for municipal offices expired. Eight candidates for trustees gave notice that they were aspirants. Here they are: E. J. Crane, W. E. Dale, Alfred H. Anderson, John B. Glunz, J. J. Harcom, Alexander Walker, J. C. Ellis and Frank McH Campbell. John W. Ryan is the only candidate for treasurer. The election takes place on April 14, and from now on there will be a heated campaign. The candidates may be classified thusly: Crane, Dale and Anderson are the anti-administration men, and if elected will change the personnel of the present city government. They have a big organization supporting them. Weekly meetings are held every Monday evening by their followers to advance their cause. A spirited campaign will be made on behalf of the trio. J. J. Harcom and John B. Glunz are running independently, with no organization behind them. They will be, if elected, free lances on the council. Campbell is working with the administration forces and will be an administration man if elected. Ellis and Walker, the incumbents, will stand on their records made on the council. This is about the line-up of the candidates who will make spirited campaigns for those positions that pay no salary. Their

Christian Science Sanatorium in California

SAN FRANCISCO: Under articles of incorporation already filed with the Secretary of State of California, permanent trustees took over on March 26 the ownership of the property and buildings which are to accommodate the Christian Science Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast. The Association, which will open its doors to guests about the middle of May, was established in accordance with Section 8 of Article I of the Manual of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

The Benevolent Association for Pacific Coast is the third large charitable institution established by The Mother Church, totaling an investment of over $4,000,000. The Christian Science Benevolent Association, located in Chestnut Hill, Mass., was chartered in 1916, and The Christian Science Pleasant View Home, located in Concord, N. H., in 1925.

While all three of these corporations are independent from a legal point of view they are under the control and supervision of The Christian Science Board of Directors. The California property, known as Arden Wood, is a thickly timbered, 16 acre, piece of rolling land situated on the edge of San Francisco, its general location being between Twin Peaks and the Ocean. The Sanatorium is sheltered from the prevailing winds by the hill which forms the principal topographical feature of the property. No public roads or ways cross it, but paths will be arranged extending from the Sanatorium through the woods, making a feature of a small ravine which runs along the east boundary. The Sanatorium, designed by Henry H. Guttersen, Architect, is of steel and reinforced concrete done in a modernized Breton style, with high central pavilion, tall classic French windows and steep-sloping, red tiled roof. It will contain accommodations for 120 guests and associates.

Within the last few weeks a substantial piece of property jutting into the principal tract, formerly held by the City of San Francisco for school purposes, has been purchased to secure additional quiet and freedom from outside disturbances.

The Board of Trustees of the San Francisco institution will be in constant touch with The Christian Science Board of Directors as are the Boards of the two New England institutions. The three Trustees of the new corporation are Mrs. Gertrude M. Glass, George D. Greenwood, and Marvin R. Higgins. Wilson D. Clark has been appointed Manager-Treasurer. All of these officers have been actively interested in Christian Science work for many years.

The meeting on Wednesday was devoted to the reading of reports of the various committees. In connection with the report of the public affairs committee by the chairman, Henry Witte, Mayor Beeger gave a short talk on the four bond issues which are to be voted on by the people of Redwood City next month. Following this talk, the club went on record as unanimously endorsing the bond issues.

DOUBLE USE OF SCHOOLS URGED TO LOWER TAXES

State Controller Urges Doubling Of Use Rather Than Construction Of New Or Larger Schools

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Mar. 27—(UP)—Instead of building new grammar schools in California when facilities become overcrowded, use the same school for a double shift of students each day.

An entirely new idea in solving the problem of increasing attendance in schools has been proposed by State Controller Ray L. Riley. It contemplates shortening the school day for students and increasing it for teachers.

"No private business could exist by using its expensive equipment as short a time each year as we use our school houses," Riley said.

"San Mateo county has a capital outlay in its grammar schools of $2 - 629,785, representing land, improvements, building and equipment. This investment is used for approximately 200 days each year, seven hours a day.

"Then when we have more pupils come into a district, instead of doubling up and using the same investment for instructing them, we invest another large sum in capital outlay for their use. Imagine a business concern trying to get along by working their plant seven hours a day, 200 days in the year, and then building a new plant when business increases.

"It is absurd. The directors would find themselves bankrupt if they did not utilize their original facilities for longer hours, in place of building an entirely new factory for increased production."

Riley contends that his plan is not only feasible, but a fact toward which California must progress.

"The taxpayers complain at the huge sum they must pay each year for schools. We are searching frantically for new sources of revenue. It would be better for us to turn our energies to devising means of making the present revenue do more work.

"The objection has been raised that the hours would be too long for teachers and too short for proper instruction of pupils.

"By starting school at 9 in the morning and continuing until 5 in the afternoon, two shifts of pupils could receive four hours instruction a day. By a very slight lengthening of the school year and a more intensive training, the same amount of work could be covered.

"The teachers' salaries could be increased and their hours arranged so they would not have to teach continuously. That item of expense would be slight compared to the cost of building new schools.

Miss Mildred Fox was hostess to the members of her bridge club at her home on Whipple avenue Friday evening. High score was held by Mrs. Emil Steingger. Refreshments were served by Miss Fox following the games.

Those present in addition to the hostess were Mrs. Earl Higgins, Mrs. Emil Steingger, Mrs. Charles Huyck, Mrs. Oscar Olson of Burlingame, Mrs. Alfred Buchmann of Menlo Park, Miss Lorraine Bresse and Miss Eleanor Freeman.

Harold's Mother Knew Answer

"Yes, sir, I am certainly proud of my little boy," says Mrs. H. M. Smith, 421 Topoka Ave., Topeka, Kansas. "He's five and weighs fifty-seven pounds. He's the picture of health as you can see, and I feel like he'll always be that way as long as I can get California Fig Syrup. I have used it with him ever since he was a year old. I knew what to give him for his colds and his feverish, upset spells because Mother used California Fig Syrup with all of us as children. I have used it freely with my boy and he loves it. It always fixes him up, quick."

In many homes, like this, the third and fourth generations are using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup because it has never failed to do what is expected of it. Nothing so quickly and thoroughly purges a child's system of the souring waste which keeps him cross, feverish, headachy, bilious, half-sick, with coated tongue, bad breath and no appetite or energy as long as it is allowed to remain in the little stomach and bowels. Fig Syrup gives tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act as Nature intends them to do, and helps build up and strengthen weak, pale and underweight children. Over four million bottles used a year shows its popularity. The genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, always bears the word "California."

To Look Into Properties of Odd Jungle Plants

Plants that kill, plants that inspire strange dreams and one that paralyzes fish but does not make them unfit for food, have been brought to Washington by scientists under Doctor Killip of the Smithsonian Institution, who have just returned from the headwaters of the Amazon and the mountains of Peru.

Nearly 30,000 plants from the Amazonian jungles and Peruvian mountain tops were collected; thousands of them have never been identified. One of these is the Ayahuasca vine, or Caapi, from which Indian medicine men obtain a drug that produces violent nervous reactions and is swallowed to evoke prophetic visions. Other plants in the collection yield barbasco, a milky poison which, poured into a river, paralyzes all the fish in a considerable area and enables the Indians to catch them easily.—London Tit-Bits.

Rasputin's Daughter Public Dancer

Paris, France.—The daughter of the monk Rasputin, who wielded powerful influence over the czarina of Russia, Mme. Marie Solovieva-Rasputin, earns a meager living as a cabaret dancer in Montmartre.

Since she came to France with many thousands of other Russians after the Red revolution, the daughter of Rasputin has experienced many vicissitudes and has worked in many humble stations in order to support herself and her two children.

"I consider myself lucky in being able to dance in the fashionable night resorts in the bright-light district of Paris, where thousands of Americans come to amuse themselves," Mme. Solovieva-Rasputin said. "I do not care for the cabaret, but I find it easier to dance than to work as a kitchen hand, as I was forced to do not long after I came here."

"I have been dogged by the same sinister influence which fate seemed to exercise over my father, because I was recently involved in a taxi smash and was unable to work for a time."

and it was only because of gifts from charitable people that I and my two daughters, seven and five years old, have been able to exist."

The daughter of the Russian monk is intensely religious. At night, after the bright lights of Montmartre are dimmed, she goes to her room and prays before the ikon, which is one of the few legacies she possesses from her father. The ikon was found near his body after his assassination.

"I carry this ikon with me always, cherishing it as a rare memento of my unhappy father. Whatever may have been said about him, my father was a man of piety and was also gifted with the power of clairvoyance. Many times he said: 'When I am dead the dynasty will be overthrown.' Three months after his assassination the revolution broke out, bathing Russia in bloodshed and sweeping away such small fortunes as we possessed."

"My father was poor and after his death our plight was terrible. My husband was an officer in the army of Admiral Koltchak. When the Reds defeated the White army we fled from Russia and sought refuge here in France."

Rasputin's daughter is planning a visit to the United States, where she hopes to lecture on her father and his relations with the Russian imperial family.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Heart Action

It is estimated that something like six barrels of blood pass through the two ventricles of the heart every hour. In other words, the amount approximates 1,800 pounds, or 224 gallons. A writer estimates that one hour's energy of the heart would raise 11,250 pounds one foot. (© 1929, Western Newspaper Union.)

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

—By— GRANT DIXON

Snooty Street

We might, today, take a stroll along snooty Fifty-seventh street, home of Carnegie and Steinway halls, the steel skeleton of a new hotel, a silver smith's, a foreign automobile agency and numerous shops devoted to expensive and sometimes useful things.

Across the way from Carnegie is an unusually large plate glass window, and behind it a strangely arresting display—a cabin motor boat of yacht proportions. I have often gazed at it and wondered how they ever got it there, so far from the water. It has been there for a year or two, and right now it is in dry dock and painters are going over its hull. Even a dry-dock boat must be kept shipshape.

For Doggie

Farther along is a dog shop. No dogs are for sale, but merely the latest fashions in puppy accessories. Wealthy dogs must have just the right things, you know, and here is the place to get them. There are jeweled muzzles, fancy leather leashes, collars that might grace a dowager and fine warm blankets. And dogs, too, must be amused. So there are dog dolls—rubber hounds which may be played with and chewed. And there's a jack-in-the-box out of which pops a dog's head. Won't Suzette be surprised.

A Proud Man

A gray-haired New Yorker whose position in both the financial and artistic worlds is unquestioned is very proud of his personal appearance. An inveterate theatergoer, he always takes care to arrive after the curtain has risen, so that every one will notice him.

On a recent trip he was, as usual perfectly groomed for every occasion. At times he could not resist showing off a bit, and once he paraded the length of his private train in his lounge pajamas—an exquisite creation of blue trimmed with red, and set off with a red stock tie.

All went well until one morning when the stop-over at a fashionable country club called for a golf outfit. He was as pleased as usual with his habiliments until he saw his secretary. "Come here," he shouted, infuriated. "What do you mean by this? Your trousers hang better than mine!"

Orchids

There are several flower stores, and all feature orchids. New models of orchids come out oftener than next year's super-sixteen automobiles. This year the debutantes have chosen green orchids. And so the green orchids are the most expensive. Or perhaps it is the other way around. The debbies may have picked the flowers because of price. In one shop some green orchids are exhibited under a glass dome, just like the old artificial flower and hair exhibits in the stuffy parlors of yesteryear. Even on Fifty-seventh street, however, are to be found cut-rate flowers. In one shop a beautiful orchid may be bought for $1.50.

Automobiles

And automobiles! There is the foreign agency, whose product sells for $16,000 minimum. And there are three second-hand auto shops in a row—no bargain establishments, be assured. Each of these has a red car in the front row, which must mean something. Three second-hand cars really look better than new. They are beautifully and gamely painted. Apparently, the people who buy them do so for show. There is no need to get a brand new motor if the paint is new. (© 1929, Bell Syndicate.)

Children Sacrificed in Jericho

Jericho, Palestine.—The practice of child sacrifice on the site of Jericho in the Bronze age was revealed by inspection of the latest excavations made here under direction of the British archaeologist, Prof. Walter Garstang.

Tragic aspects of ancient life within the walled city before the Israelite conquest were revealed during excavation of the bones of children killed sacrificially in the years prior to Joshua's successful assault on the city.

The correspondent was accompanied by Professor Garstang on a visit to the excavations at old Jericho where the Sir Charles Marston expedition has been working some time.

The defensive citadel, twelve feet thick of exceptional height, was believed to have been built about 2,000 B. C. But the excavations have changed many previous assumptions about old Jericho, which was cursed and burned by Joshua.

The expedition has discovered that the earlier city had the largest wall and that the city began to decline and lose population, making necessary the building of smaller and more easily protected walls in later centuries.

The theory that an earthquake caused the collapse of the wall of Jericho, will be worked out by the expedition next, as this season's work will end shortly.

The biblical version is that Joshua was instructed to have his priests march around the wall seven days, blowing trumpets and then, on the seventh day, all the people shouted with a great shout and the wall fell flat and they marched in. The inhabitants of the besieged city were then slain and the city itself burned.

In the burned city, as it is exposed today, the remains of charred corn in a bin were seen which were there when the Israelites marched over the fallen wall.

French Convict Ship Held in Awe by Natives

Havre, France.—The gruesome French convict ship, La Martiniere, has arrived in this port with a cargo of Martinique rum brought on its return voyage from taking a load of French convicts to Devil's Island in French Guinea.

After unloading the rum the ship will proceed to La Rochelle to wait for another cargo of humans condemned to pass the remainder of their days in the French penal island.

Even the natives of this town are superstitious of the convict vessel and do not like to associate with members of its crew. Every time it carries a load of convicts, weighted with despair and misery, from the shores of France there are several deaths.

LOITERING

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

There is, of course, imminent danger in traveling too rapidly as many people can attest.

Haste often does make waste, and the longest way round is not in frequently the shortest way home. We are likely to get into trouble of various sorts if we go too fast. I was myself startled by the sound of a policeman's bell, and handed a ticket as I was coming down Western avenue, not long ago, which cost me ten dollars and an hour's delay when, if I had gone more deliberately I should have saved my money and arrived home in adequate time to meet the engagement which I was making unfortunately haste to keep.

But there is such a thing as taking too much time of dawdling along and getting nothing done; of watching the pictures on the wall when we should be having the eyes on the book or the solution.

"Get a thing done, when you have undertaken it," was Arnold's slogan.

It was the loitering of the hare which caused him to lose the race with the tortoise. He was by far the better runner and could have won hands down, as we now say, but, having begun his task, he lay down in the furrow and went to sleep, and so was beaten by his slow competitor, the tortoise.

Men do their work so today. Ben son told me twenty years ago that he had a book under way, but he is a loiterer and it is not yet written. Gould has been going to improve his business house and bring his equipment and his methods up to date, but he loiters on the job and in the meantime his competitors have gotten the edge on him. Ruskin is behind with his school work; not because he has lacked time. He has dawdled along; he has loitered and the result is disastrous.

Fish and Game Notes

For many years sportsmen of Humboldt county, and some prominent sportsmen of other localities, have tried to secure the removal of a jetty in the Eel River, which was obstructing the free run of fish, but nothing was accomplished. Last fall the Eel River Valley Fish and Game Club called the matter to the attention of the Associated Sportsmen of California. Our Public Relations Committee made a personal inspection and immediately returned, secured the necessary permits and the jetty has been removed.

As in many other cases the incident is not closed. The Humboldt county board of supervisors, after being threatened with a suit for damages in case the jetty is not replaced, have agreed to replace it, but we can now insist that the plans and specifications be presented to the commission so that the necessary provision will be made to permit the free run of fish at all times.

Through the association's efforts, necessary appropriations have been made by the commission and the State government for the construction of a permanent jetty at the mouth of the Russian River. This jetty will keep the mouth of the river open and with intensive fish propagation and suitable care, it will be possible to make the Russian River one of the finest fishing streams in the State.

The association prevailed upon the commission to secure some Atlantic salmon eggs. These eggs have been hatched and the small salmon are now being held at the Prairie Creek and Gold Creek hatcheries. The permanent establishment of this fish in California, gives promise of being the longest step forward in the sport of fishing in recent years.

The foregoing are but some items of the program on which the association is continually working. You will learn more from our magazine and from attending meetings.

Fish and game can no longer be left unguarded to look after itself. Active, intensive organized watchfulness and effort by all sportsmen, is necessary to maintain let alone increase, our present supply of fish and game. In our efforts we ask your support to the limit of your ability.

Menlo Man Enters Retail Squab Trade

Franklin Lintner, who for a number of years has been doing a wholesale business in pigeons and squabs at his Menlo Park farm, the Peninsula Pigeon Farm, announced this week that from now on he will enter the retail trade in addition to his wholesale business. The Peninsula Pigeon Farm is located at 1220 San Mateo Drive in Menlo Park.

To carry the programs of the National Broadcasting Company from its San Francisco studio to the six stations making up the Pacific Coast network requires more than 1700 miles of telephone lines.

The Smiths still retain the lead in the Los Angeles telephone directory, but the Browns have now passed the Joneses and hold second place. The last directory lists more than 4,000 Smiths, 2,400 Browns, and 2,000 Joneses.

ARTICLE No. 24

The competition conducted by the London Sunday Times has been completed and the decision of the judges has been announced. In the following prize hands Z is always the dealer and the players are seated at the table as follows:

Y

1. One game: A, B, O, Z bids "One No-Trump"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "Two Hearts"; B, "No Bid". What should Z say holding Spades, A, J, 10, 6, 5; Hearts, A, Diamonds, A, Q, 7, 4, 3; Clubs, A, 5?

2. Z, Y, 10; A, B, O in rubber game. Where Z said "No Bid"; A, "No Bid"; Y, "One Spade"; B, "Two Hearts"; Z, "Two Spades"; A, "Three Clubs"; Y, "Three Spades"; what should B say, holding Spades, A, 10, 4; Hearts, A, Q, J, 7, 6, 4; Diamonds, A, 6, 3; Clubs, A, 5?

3. Z, Y, 10; A, B, O in rubber game. Where Z bid, "One No-Trump"; A, "Two Hearts"; Y, "Three Diamonds"; A, "Four Clubs"; B, "Two Clubs"; what should B say, holding Spades, K, Q, 10, 8, 7, 6, 2; Hearts, 2; Diamonds, 6; Clubs, 9, 8, 7?

4. Z, Y, 10; A, B, O in rubber game. Where Z said, "No Bid"; A, "One Heart"; Y, "No Bid"; B, "Two Clubs"; Z, "Two Spades"; what should A say, holding Spades, Q, 9, 5; Hearts, A, K, J, 5, 4; Diamonds, Q, J, 7; Clubs, 9, 4?

5. Z, Y, 10; A, B, O in rubber game. Where Z bid, "One Heart"; A, "Two Hearts"; B, "Two Clubs"; what should B say, holding Spades, 6, 5; Hearts, 4; Diamonds, A, K, 8, 5, 2; Clubs, A, Q, 7, 5, 4?

6. At love all in first game, what should Z bid, holding Spades, A, K, Q, Hearts, A, 7, 6, 5, 4; Diamonds, A, K, 8, 7; Clubs, 9, 8, 7?

7. At love all in first game, where Z bids "One Diamond", what should A say, holding Spades, A, Q, J, 6; Hearts, Q, 8; Diamonds, A, J, 10, 6; Clubs, A, 10, 9, 4?

8. At love all in first game, what should Z bid, holding Spades, A, K, Q, Hearts, Q, 6, 4, 3, 2; Diamonds, Q, 8, 4, 3; Clubs, A, K, 10?

9. Z, Y, 10; A, B, O in rubber game. Where Z bids "One Spade"; A, "Two Hearts"; Y, "No Bid"; what should B say, holding Spades, Q, 10, 5; Hearts, 5; Diamonds, A, Q, 9, 3; Clubs, K, 10, 7, 5, 2?

The English Judges consisted of three members of the Portland Club of London, the best known Card Club in England. All of them are well known players, so their opinion is worthy of greatest respect. Their decision (by a majority vote) as to the proper bid with the foregoing hands is as follows:

1. Two No-Trumps.
2. Double.
3. Five Clubs.
4. No Bid.
5. No Bid.
6. One No-Trump.
7. Four Clubs.
8. One No-Trump.
9. No Bid.
10. One Spade.
11. One No-Trump.
12. No Bid.

The decision as to each hand of the majority of the competitors is not available. This is to be regretted as their opinion makes an interesting comparison with that of the Judges. The writer would agree with the opinion of the English Judges in all but Hands No. 1, No. 5, and No. 11.

In Hand No. 1, it seems to the writer that two spades is a better bid than two no trumps. The fact that Z has the singleton ace of hearts is the danger point of the hand because Y may have a long string of hearts and no re-entry card. If that is the case and the opponents open the club suit as they probably will, game will probably not result at no trump. On the other hand, if Y has any help at all for spades, Y Z should score game without much difficulty. Don't let 100 aces induce you to make an unsound no trump bid when you have a sound major suit bid as in this example. In this connection, the writer also considers an original bid of one no trump with this hand an unsound bid. The proper bid is one spade for the reason already given.

In Hand No. 5, the writer would bid one no trump, rather than pass. Y Z are 24 on the score and, if they make one spade, they will score game and rubber. On the other hand, if A B bid one no trump, they not only have a good chance to make it, if left in, but also can double two spades if bid by Y Z. A pass with this hand seems poor strategy. Y will certainly not take out his partner at that score and it is easily possible to make one spade. On the other hand, a bid of one no trump by A may easily be interpreted as a bid to the score and thus much more apt to be overbid by Y Z in their attempt to score game, than under ordinary conditions. Hands of this type, however, are very close and the writer would not consider a pass by A as unsound but only too conservative.

In Hand No. 11, the question of a choice between a weak major suit bid and a no trump is presented. The writer would prefer the bid of one heart, however, to the no trump bid because of the singleton ace of spades. That suit is almost certain to be opened and the hand may turn out very badly at no trump. On the other hand, if Y has any hearts at all, Y Z ought to do very well at that suit and certainly cannot suffer any harm.

In the following article, hands No. 4, No. 7, No. 8 and No. 10, which involve interesting points of bidding, will be discussed.

the famous bay and at noon on July 7 sent his marines ashore and in a short time the Mexican flag, that waved over the custom house for a quarter of a century was pulled down and the stars and stripes were sent up and unfurled amid the shouts of the marines and the commanding from the ship that lay close by. Sloat issued a proclamation claiming the country on behalf of the United States and guaranteeing protection to the citizens and their property. The proclamation is considered to this day as one of the finest state documents ever executed by any official. Sloat thus became the first military governor of California. He held his position only thirty days, when he sailed away. By capturing California, then having an area of 450,500 square miles, the United States pushed its domain to the Pacific Ocean, thus extending its possessions from ocean to ocean and securing control of the coast. The country also became possessor one of the greatest in history. It gave the United States control of the Pacific Coast. It would have been sentimental on the part of John Sloat and his winsome bride had they been married in Monterey, the scene of the accomplishments of the groom's forbear. of San Francisco bay, which contains the largest land locked harbor in the world, capable of accommodating the combined maritime fleets of the earth. Not only did it get these choice possessions, but it captured the gateway to the Orient with its teeming millions now awakening. Sloat's part in this big event places him high upon the scroll of fame and makes his achievement and securing control of the coast. The country also became possessor one of the greatest in history.
